Wordmark and Logomark

WORDMARK — used in full lockups, headers, and anywhere there is room to spell out the name.

LOGOMARK — terminal prompt merged with a checkmark. Used alone for favicons, app icons, and agent badges.

Clear Space

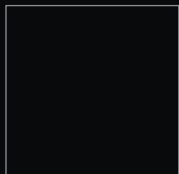

Minimum clear space equals the height of the lowercase 'p' in the wordmark, or the full logomark height when the mark is used alone. Nothing else sits inside that space.

Minimum Size

Wordmark: do not render below 24px tall in digital use.

Logomark: do not render below 16px tall. Below that, the checkmark loses legibility.

Verification and pass states only

Signal lime represents verification, passing tests, and confirmed states inside the product. It is not a decorative accent and should not be used to recolor the logo or wordmark.

Type System

PRIMARY — INTER

Proof that you can ship.

Headlines are editorial, tight, and confident. Shown here in Helvetica as a stand-in — production uses Inter.

TECHNICAL / METADATA — JETBRAINS MONO

Technical and metadata content is set in monospace, compact, and left-aligned. Shown here in Courier as a stand-in — production uses JetBrains Mono.

BODY

Body copy stays short, readable, and restrained. No decorative line lengths, no filler.

Misuse

- Do not place the wordmark or logomark on busy backgrounds or photography.
- Do not add drop shadows, glow, or outlines to either mark.
- Do not stretch, skew, or rotate either mark.
- Do not recreate the wordmark in a different typeface.
- Do not recolor the marks in Signal lime or any gradient.
- Do not place the logomark inside a rounded pill or badge shape.
